TRIBUTES TO BLAINE. What is Said by Some of Those Who Knew Him Best.

Gov. Cleaves of Maine paid a very high tribute to the dead statesman. "I knew Mr. Blaine," said Gov. Cleaves to THE STAR representative, "very well, our acquaintance dating back many years. My regard | ceased). for him both as a man and as a statesman was ever very great. I esteemed and always held in respect the friendship existing between us, for placed him high upon the plane of men; one whose friendship was indeed an honor to hold. Mr. Blaine was a man of marked individuality, of gifted attributes, of sterling qualities, of superior intellectuality, of charming presence and ossessed generally those peculiarly distinctive qualities of a man who is truly great. As a political leader and as a statesman his profound analytical mind won him the admiration of his fellow countrymen. His loss is a national bereavement.

"Mr. Blaine was very dear to the people of our state. While his death was not entirely unour state. While his death was not entirely unexpected yet there lingered a hope with us that he might eventually recover, and when the news of the end reached us the sorrow was universal. In Maine we feel his loss to have been a personal one. Everybody knew, loved and respected him. He had been so long and so prominently associated with the state and its so prominently associated with the state and its people that it is hard to realize that he is with us no longer. From one end of the state to the other the regret of his demise extends, and when the sad news was received, everywhere could be heard expressions of sorrow. Memorial services will be held today in the Congregational Church at Augusta. The senate and legislature will meet in joint session, appropriate resolutions will be adopted and eloquent eulogies delivered."

MAYOR CHASE OF AUGUSTA. Mayor John W. Chase of Augusta in referring to Mr. Blaine said: "I recall a remark once made by Mr. Blaine which illustrated that PROM THE HOUSE TO THE CHURCH. Outside the house the street was thronged with spectators, who reverently doffed their hats as the pallbearers deposited their sacred burden in the hearse and while the attendants temporarily buried it under as many flowers as could be placed therein.

The cortege then started for the church. In the first carriage was the Rev. Dr. Tennis S. Hamlin, the officiating clergyman. Then came the pallbearers-Senator Hale of Maine, Senator Frye of Maine, Senator Morgan of Alabama, ex-Speaker Reed of Maine, Representa-tive Boutelle of Maine, Representative Hitt of Illinois (formerly Mr. Blaine's assistant secretary of state), Representative Bingham of Pennsylvania, in which state Mr. Blaine was born; Gen. Thomas Ewing of Ohio (second cousin of Mr. Blaine), John Hay (exssistant secretary of state).

Afterward followed the immediate family of the deceased, who entered the equipages assigned them in the following order:

by ladies, were Baron Fava and Marquis Imperiali of the Italian legation; Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British minister; signed them in the following order: Miss Hattie Blaine and Mr. Jas. G. Blaine.

to the church. At the door was a committee of identification consisting of Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Chas. B. Reade of the Senate, Assistant Doorkeeper Coakley of the House, Capt. Rodgers, U. S. A., of the War Department, Mr. Richardson of the State Department, Mr. Robert A. Chilton of the State Department, and Jno. T. Chauncey, who recognized, and admitted those entitled to seats within the church. Owing to the excellent police arrangements the street was kept entirely clear, and thus the arrival and departure of the carriages was not accompanied by any blockade.

As the hour approached for the funeral ceremonies the crowds about the church increased until passage along the adjacent streets was almost impeded.

The lower door of the church was kept closed until the arrival of the funeral cortege from the residence. It was then thrown open and those coming from the services at the house entered by it.

The display of floral tributes was one of the most remarkable ever seen at a funeral in this city. All around the chancel were banked great masses of beautiful flowers in wreaths, bunches and set figures, while over the reading desk hung two graceful palms that were placed behind the rail of the organ loft. Before the funeral party entered the church two floral pedestals were brought in and beneath them was piaced a huge carpet of roses, above which rested the casket, which was brought in by the active pallbearers.
